Cardinals wide receiver Larry Fitzgerald caught his 500th career pass Sunday, reaching that milestone in the second-fewest games (87) in history. Teammate Anquan Boldin caught his 500th pass in his 80th game.

Fitzgerald, however, caught just four passes for 34 yards and was targeted only five times.

Asked if he would have liked to see the Cardinals throw deep more often, Fitzgerald smiled and said: "We did what we had to do to go out there and try to put ourselves in position to win."
